

Same development warmup and held-out sequence, repeated with fresh initial states. MAE measures task duration prediction; latency is post-router MoE only. Primary oracle physically replays the frozen actual ours owners, binding, prefetch and phase-release plan, so its latency equals that same plan. It measures conditional timing accuracy, not perfect-prediction dispatch performance or an optimal-scheduling upper bound; floating replay residuals are retained. No circuit area claims.